WAYNESBORO, VIRGINIA.

COMMUNICATED BY F. P. LEAVENWORTH.

A plat, "supposed to be the original," of survey of Waynesboro, in Augusta county, Va., dated 1798, by Jean Estill and his brother, is in possession of Mr. Fishburne, of this place. The place was named for "Mad Anthony Wayne," the hero of Stony Point. The old brick houses on the main street are laid in the English bond used in Virginia down to about 1820. The earliest records in the court-house at Staunton of land sales begin in 1745.

In the cemetery at Waynesboro is a grave-stone said to be that of the grandfather of Gen. John Imboden, C. S. Cavalry, so highly commended by Gen. R. E. Lee.
